

Voters deserve the truth.

“The general employees keep the town operating. We want equality because of the job we do. We are the front line. We talk to people on this beach every day. They come to us! Giving us a voice will help the city to run better.”

Terry Steimer
5-year city employee
Crew leader
Public Works Maintenance Dept.

FACT: Collective bargaining guarantees that those who know best how things work – the town employees themselves – can collaborate with town officials to maintain and improve the services they provide to citizens.

FACT: The workers of Ocean City have the support of local police and firefighters who have already won the right to collectively bargain. The workers of Ocean City simply desire the same treatment as other town employees.

FACT: Over 1,500 residents signed the petition to put collective bargaining rights for Ocean City employees on the ballot.

“So often employees have good suggestions. We are the ones who do the work, but our ideas are never taken seriously. People in power make decisions for us, but the things they decide don’t always work. We want a voice, and we want it to count.”

Barbara Dahan
34-year city employee
Revenue Specialist, Billing and Collections, Finance Dept.
